The more I love and
value myself, the more I allow positive
things to come into my life. The less I love myself, the less I feel worthy of allowing
positive things to
come into my life.

The amount of depth,
meaning, and joy I
experience in my life
is in direct proportion to how much love I
have for myself.

Most of our
suffering stems
from us feeling
“less than”. We are not LESS
THAN ANY-
THING OR
ANYONE!! We
are complete!

The background of the image is a lush, green forest scene. A stone archway, partially covered in moss and ivy, leads into a dark tunnel. A small waterfall cascades down the right side of the archway. The ground is covered in moss and small plants. The overall atmosphere is serene and natural.

The process of
allowing happens
by first trusting,
and then by
always being true
to who we are. In this way, we will
only attract that
which is truly ours
and it all happens
at the rate we're
comfortable with.

If only we knew how perfect and magnificent we are, there would be no hospitals and no prisons.
It feels as if imperfection is the creation of the mind. Judgment
too. EVERYTHING.

One of the things I
believe is that we
already are what
we spend our lives
trying to attain,
but we just don't
realize it!

We are obsessed with worrying about our future, and that is why many of us live joyless lives. However, when we find joy in the present moment, and every present moment from here on, we are creating a joyful future.

Learning to love
others begins
with learning to
love ourselves
unconditionally
first.

When we're each aware of our own Magnificence, we don't feel the need to control others,
and we won't allow
ourselves to be controlled.

Remember Your Magnificence

The more we try to be someone we are not, the more we are pushing away what we truly deserve. All we need to do is to be our self fearlessly, and we will attract what is truly ours!

Loving yourself
means being your
own best friend,
standing by yourself
at all times, including
times of failure;
being there for your-
self no matter what.
